

M&N Reading LAB

A warm welcome to all our keen readers

Join our Reading Lab and discover how to start reading in another language with confidence.

In this hands-on session, you will learn practical strategies to approach texts without feeling overwhelmed, explore different types of books for your level, and experiment with real examples in Spanish, French, Italian and Portuguese.

We will also introduce our curated library, designed to help you progress step by step, from your first pages to more advanced reading.

As a participant you should leave knowing:

- How to choose the right book for your level
- How to read without translating everything
- How to build vocabulary naturally
- How to enjoy reading (this is key)

You might not know, but.....

A good time to start reading in a foreign language is much earlier than most people think, and how you read matters:

You can start reading as soon as you know basic words and pronunciation.

You are ready when:

- You recognise common words (is, have, go)
- You understand very simple sentences
- You read the alphabet or writing system

Did you know that English shares many words with many Romance languages?

WHY - English has borrowed heavily from Latin and French over centuries, so it shares a significant amount of vocabulary with Romance languages:
